

AFROTC Program Overview

The Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) program provides leadership training and education for future Air Force officers.

Program Components:

- Academic coursework in aerospace studies
- Leadership laboratory training
- Physical fitness requirements
- Summer field training
- Professional development activities

Benefits of AFROTC:

- Commission as a Second Lieutenant upon graduation
- Leadership and management skills
- Professional development opportunities
- Networking with military professionals
- Potential for advanced education and training

This program prepares cadets for successful careers in the U.S. Air Force.